

TWO PROSPEROUS NATIONS

There are two nations or tribes of people who are always prosperous, uniformly so. There are none who want—no beggars nor paupers nor ne'er-do-wells among them. They are the two nations, uniform prosperity is not due so much to the resources at their command as to their industry and thrift. To them work is a joy and they find recreation in productive labor. They consume much less than they produce and conserve their surplus as insurance against adversity. When crops fail and industry slows down they always have ample in their savings accounts to maintain them until prosperity smiles again. The thrift and industry of these people have been cited as examples for other nations since the days of King Solomon, and no doubt long before. They are very little people but they are exceedingly wise—the bees and the ants.

FIND HUMAN BONES PILED UNDER MUCK ORIGIN UNKNOWN

Collection Sent To Smithsonian Institute For Examination

Anthropologist May Throw Light on Early History of Everglades

A collection of human skeletal remains uncovered two miles east of Pahokee today is being sent to C. Greenwood to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C. for examination by Dr. A. H. Hrdlicka, anthropologist, to determine if possible the race of the people and the time of the death.

A drainage excavating machine operating for the Southern Sugar Company and cleaning out a ditch six weeks ago, broke into a considerable pile of skeletal remains.

Everyone who knew of the occurrence was too busy with other matters to make a close examination of the site and the bones, but about that time the committee of experts from the United States Department of Agriculture visited this region to get facts on the proposed flood control bill and the find was remarked upon casually by a member of the group.

Visitors and he reported the matter to Dr. Hrdlicka, curator of the division of anthropology of the National Museum at Washington, of which the Smithsonian Institute is a part.

Dr. Hrdlicka wrote to The Everglades News, for further information, and his letter was turned over to C. Greenwood, superintendent of agriculture for the Southern Sugar Company in the Canal Point division.

In his letter to Dr. Hrdlicka, Greenwood reported that the pile of skeletal remains was between 5 and 6 feet below the surface of the ground. The bones were not buried in regular order, apparently having been thrown in a pile at the end of one of the ditches or high bones on skulls. The exact extent of the pile of bones was not ascertained but there were at least 20 skeletons. Further excavation may disclose a larger number.

Enough bones to reconstruct complete skeletons were collected and boxed and sent to Washington by express. Several human teeth were included in the collection. All of the teeth were in good condition, none showing decay.

Mr. Greenwood says the cheek bones protruded, which suggests that the bodies were those of Indians, and the chin section of the skulls is prominent. Full grown men and boys when measured with the length of legs of full grown men indicated that the bodies were of persons six feet tall.

Persons who examined the remains carefully are withholding guesses as to the origin of the bodies, for the site of the find and the condition of the bones gives them nothing to base conclusions on. Dr. Hrdlicka's report is expected to throw considerable light on the subject, for he is the most eminent anthropologist in the country and has examined thousands of similar remains.

It is certain the remains are not those of flood victims of modern times, for there was no flood prior to 1928 that could have drowned that number of persons and deposited their remains at that point. Before 1928 there was not enough population to have provided that number of bodies. There were no shells, pottery or weapons or other articles in the pile. The explanation must commonly accept that the bodies are of Spaniards, early explorers or of Indians of a race that preceded the Seminoles.

FLORIDA CROP REPORT FOR 1929

The principal Florida crops for 1929 were valued at $97,017,000 compared with $100,000,000 in 1928. This includes single crops: citrus, sugarcane, fruits and nuts.

Single crops show a production materially above that of last year but only a slightly higher value due to the lower value per unit for some of the crops. The total value of the single crops based on December 1 values is $25,000,000 compared with a valuation of $21,650,000 a year ago. This does not represent the total value of the single crops of the state as it does not include a large acreage of prairie and other crops. Besides some minor crops not enumerated, cotton and tobacco have brought materially larger returns to growers than the crops of last year. More sugar cane acreage has been produced and more has been marketed with good returns to the producers. The Irish potato crop, while showing a smaller gross value, was grown on the acreage actually representing a larger pattern to growers on the sugar harvest.

Peasants with a better yield and larger production, brought less money than the crop of last year. With a crop as short as the one of the crop, it is estimated that the value of the crop will not pay as much as will 2000 bushels of beans on an acre sold at a bumper but it will pay as much as a corn crop on $20 an acre had anywhere.

Plant corn. Cultivate the crop. Harvest it before the rains start. Don't worry about what you have in the corn crop. Somebody will buy it, to make very little if for no other purpose. The crop will not pay as much as will 2000 bushels of beans on an acre sold at a bumper but it will pay as much as a corn crop on $20 an acre had anywhere.

This isn't just newspaper talk. All the old-timers know it is as true as the sun. Ask any farmer of Cleveland, V. C. Denon at South Bay, Walter Greer or Claude Harlan at Belle Glade, W. L. Brandon at Canal Point or any of the old-timers. They know.

Corn crops have gone up in price. It is true, but it was usually due to late planting, lack of attention and high water in summer.

This month of January in the winter time to plant even in this country. Farmers often wait to plant corn until they get their seeds and fertilizer out, which is in March, April or May, and that is the late. If corn is planted in late January or early in February it will mature in May or June before the rains have done any harm. A bad feature of the rains is that the ground is made too soft to bear the weight of the track that goes in to land the corn out.

It is certain there will be buyers of corn, and it is likely that an elevator, or warehouse, with storage and mill will be put in. O. Sweeney, who owns land at Lake Harbor and lives at Sebring is thinking up a deal with people who would like that 1929 corn be planted to corn.

Now, can you imagine what the price of corn will be next summer: the price depends on a good many factors, as does the price of beans and other vegetables.

The local market will absorb a good deal of corn and the east coast will take a lot. Cattle feeders from Duval county carry over the upper Glades last summer for corn and did not find enough to serve their purpose.

Merchants and business people are invited to attend.

Freezing at 7.50. Subject, The Ordinance and the Fall of Man. Come early and get your seats. You will see one of the best pictures that has been put on the screen. The picture has no less than 1000 feet of the whole thing. You are all invited.

GET MONEY FOR TAX FROM A CORN CROP

This Month Is Proper Time To Plant, To Harvest Before Rains

There is a way to pay drainage taxes and all of the other taxes on land, improve the condition of the soil and make the tract more valuable.

Plant corn. Cultivate the crop. Harvest it before the rains start. Don't worry about what you have in the corn crop. Somebody will buy it, to make very little if for no other purpose. generally should encourage the planting of corn, or that cereal will advance the poultry and live stock industries and make year-round business.

Once a another crop that will pay the drainage taxes. Right now corn can be sold in Miami at $1.50 a bushel, and even beans are bringing only 70 cents a bushel. $3.50 a bushel was paid for corn at the Canal Point depot. John Chester had a pair of "okra" at Chatterbox buy he had from it during the summer and went away for the winter and when he came back next year he found the bushes alive and he pruned them up and started raising pods from them.

There are dozens of short-croppers in the upper Glades who can get themselves in shape to buy a piece of ground if they will stay here this summer and work instead of buying a new automobile and going on a vacation trip.

R. J. Crews is erecting a cottage on his lots in Kallenderen subdivision this week. Mr. and Mrs. Yates of Lake Worth will buy it as soon as it is finished.

ABOUT PEOPLE

S. W. Dilling, for many years active in Everglades affairs, is now living in Lake Worth, having moved there recently from Pahokee, where he has a farm.

Mrs. Clara Leonard, who lived in the Glades several years and was the cook on a Dwyer & Holloway dredge working between Chosen and Torrey Island two years ago, is now living in Port Wayne, Ind. In a letter received a few days ago she says she is four inches thick there and she misses the sea back in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parvin, who farmed on Ritta Island two years ago, are now living at 228 1/2 Ninth street, West Palm Beach. Until recently they were living at 211 Seave Avenue, Palm Beach.

Henry Hamlin, formerly of Ritta Island, is now at Pahokee, Okla., capital of the George Indian Nation. He was at Fort Scott, Kan. for a time before going to Pahokee. In a letter dated December 18 he says: "Business is very dull here in Pahokee, Okla. compared to what it was when I was here six years ago. Six years ago the Indians regularly sold and slaughtered about $15,000 a head a year, but now it is reduced to less than $2,000 a head a year. Although the weather has been cold the past 30 days we have had no snow here so far this winter."

J. P. Harbison, retired colonel of the U. S. army, who owns land at Belle Glade and lived there several years, is on his way back. He is now in Philadelphia, Pa., for a year or so. THE NEW CHEVROLET

The Chevrolet Motor Company today announces a new car for 1930 known as "the greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history."

Announcement of the new car today comes right at the close of Chevrolet's greatest year, for the phenomenal success of the Chevrolet introduced just a year ago, resulted in an output of 1,250,000 cars this year, breaking a wide margin all former Chevrolet annual production records.

In making public Chevrolet plans for 1930, W. S. Kauder, president and general manager, declared that with the improvements incorporated in the new Chevrolet was anticipating a volume of business that will equal, if not surpass, the phenomenal record of 1929. And, in order to accommodate an early demand, production is being speeded with all the haste consistent with the precision methods for which Chevrolet manufacturing operations are famous.

New car shipments have been going out to dealers for the past ten days, with deliveries to owners scheduled to start today. The caps went on display this morning in thousands of Chevrolet showrooms from coast to coast, while at the same time the announcement of the new car was being broadcast through the advertising columns of more than 6,500 newspapers.

Scores of distinct improvements have been made in the 1930 Chevrolet line, the factory announced. Greater beauty, added safety factors, improved riding comfort and better all-around performance with added power, and faster acceleration are announced as features of the new line.

Larger tires, small wheels, Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers at all four wheels, Fisher slanting non-glare VV windshield and vastly improved four wheel braking system are some of the high lights.

Brakes are of the internal expanding "articulated shoe type" both front and rear, those on the
